

BLENDING RETIREMENT SYSTEM - THE ESSENTIALS

Home Financial & Legal Personal Finance Retirement Planning

Under the military's new Blended Retirement System, about 85 percent of all active-duty and reserve service members will receive a retirement benefit, even if they don't qualify for full retirement. That's a big difference from the low numbers of service members today saving for retirement. Your future self will thank you if you begin saving even modestly today for your tomorrow. Recent changes make it easier to save for your future.

Learn how you can safeguard your financial future and understand the new retirement system, including:

What should service members be aware of when deciding whether to change over to the new system?

One of the most important things you'll need to do in making a decision of whether or not to opt into the Blended Retirement System is assess the likelihood that you will service for at least 20 years. Bear in mind that if you do not service that long and do not join the Blended Retirement System, you will get neither a lifetime monthly annuity nor service contributions to your Thrift Savings Plan, or TSP, account.

Do your homework and stay informed on early retirement savings and your ability to build interest over time. These are important financial concepts to learn about and pay attention to. Get answers to all your retirement questions before you make a decision.

What does a service member need to do to opt into the Blended Retirement System?

First, you must have completed the mandatory Blended Retirement System Opt-In Course via Joint Knowledge Online or your service's learning management system before the opt-in option is available to them. For service members who completed the Blended Retirement System Opt-In Course via Military OneSource, the completion certificate must be turned into their training manager before the opt-in option is available to them.

To opt into the Blended Retirement System, service members will need to visit one of these designated resources, depending on their branch of service, between January 1, 2018, through December 31, 2018.

- Army, Air Force, Navy: MyPay
- Marine Corps: Marine Online, or MOL
- Coast Guard, NOAA Corps: Direct Access
- U.S. Public Health Corps: Contact your Compensation Branch

How long will the Department of Defense match my contributions?

The Department of Defense will contribute 1 percent of a service member's basic pay to his or her Thrift Savings Plan after 60 days of entering service and will begin to match the service member's contributions (up to an additional 4 percent when a service member contributes at least 5 percent), at the start of the third year of service. Both the 1 percent contribution and matching contributions from the Department of Defense continue through the end of the service member's 26th year of service.

How does the Thrift Savings Plan figure into the new system?

Blended retirement will enroll all service members joining after January 2018 into the Thrift Savings Plan, with automatic and matching Department of Defense contributions. After completion of two years of service, service members are vested and that money belongs to them. If they leave, it goes with them.
